The Qualities of this Spaw have been well examined by ſeveral Phyſicians of Ability, and frequently recommended by them, particularly by the preſent Doctor Johnſton, as well as his Father.

When it is conſidered that the above paper and other articles manufactured here, make a clear ſaving to this country or all the money that would have been ſent out to purchaſe them from abroad, it is hoped that all thoſe who really wiſh to promote the intereſt of America, and of this country in particular, with which their own intereſt is cloſely connected, will contribute their aid to the ſucceſs of this undertaking, which cannot be effectually done without a conſtant care in ſaving and ſupplying him with thoſe linen rags, which are generally deſtroyed or thrown away as uſeleſs, tho' they are abſolutely neceſſary to a paper manufactory, which cannot be carried on without them.

To add to the difficulty of procuring a ſufficiency of rags, conſiderable quantities have been collected here and ſent to other colonies, whereby their manufactories have been ſupplied, to the injury of our own, with this material article: And tho' the legiſlature have not yet thought proper to prohibit the exportation of it, yet it is hoped a due regard to their own intereſt will incline the inhabitants of this country to ſupply a manufactory among themſelves, preferably to thoſe of another colony.

A Narrative of the late Revolution in Copenhagen, as planned by the Queen Dowager of Denmark, with an account of the ſeizing and impriſoning the Queen Conſort, &c.

ACCORDING to the moſt authentic accounts of this affair, we find that the Queen Dowager has long projected a deſign, by force or fraud to deſtroy the preſent K. of Denmark, and advance her own beloved ſon to the Throne; which plot being greatly hindered by the King's alliance with the Royal Family of England, and by the iſſue of that marriage; ſhe and her creature the Baron de S--m--b--g, conceived an implacable hatred againſt the Queen Conſort, though they took care for a long time to diſſemble it in ſuch a manner that it was not viſible either to her or to the King.

In the mean time, under the maſk of friendſhip, the Dowager was buſied in kindling in the breaſt of the young Queen, an ambition to meddle with ſtate affairs, on which ſhe meant to build her ruin.

By her counſels his Daniſh Majeſty was inſtigated to leave his dominions (as they ſaid) for his health, information and amuſement. He was perſuaded with ſome difficulty, to leave his Royal Conſort behind him; mean while the wicked Baron uſed all his influence to lead the King into every exceſs he could deviſe, made himſelf more neceſſary to his maſter, in proportion as he began to want ſupplies; though, through the natural goodneſs of the King's heart, he could never induce him to be guilty of any acts of cruelty or oppreſſion.

During the interval of his Majeſty's firſt abſence from the young Queen, though the Dowager perſuaded her into the commiſſion of ſome female errors in ſtate policy, yet ſhe was far from ſucceeding in rendering that Princeſs odious to the body of the Nobility, which it ſeems was the plan adopted to deſtroy her.

However, as the Dowager thought that the Queen appeared in ſome meaſure enamoured of power, and the Baron found the King, at his return appeared fond of journies, they planned between them his Majeſty's expedition to England, taking the opportunity of his abſence, once more to endeavour at enſnaring his conſort; they knew the jealouſy of the Nobility for their privileges, and they thought it an eaſy matter to perſuade a Princeſs born in a free nation to incline the ſcale in favour of the people; they hoped ſhe would do this, and fall into other political errors, and determined to flatter every foible accordingly; but in many things they were diſappointed.

During the abſence of the King, the Queen had managed affairs with moderation, except in one or two inſtances, but upon a remonſtrance of thoſe who really loved the King and her, forbore; amongſt that number was a Gentleman of her houſhold, who had formerly, practiſed phyſic, and who was extremely attentive to what paſſed, both in the King's Court, and that of the Dowager Queen; this Gentleman being well known, and much converſant in the city, and of a moſt affable and obliging diſpoſition, was well received by all perſons and parties; he could ſpeak indifferently well the Engliſh tongue, on which account, and his general good name, the Queen with her uſual affability, frequently enquired in Engliſh what news he heard? Thus diſtinguiſhed, he in gratitude became exceedingly induſtrious in his daily enquiry, and conſtant in his report of whatever he thought might inſtruct or amuſe the Queen; and from him, amongſt other things, ſhe had intimation of ſome intended ſcheme being on foot; and though he could not be ſure of the particulars, that the Dowager Queen was at the head of it, and that the Prince her ſon had made himſelf familiar with the officers of the King's guard, frequently diſtributing amongſt the ſoldiers. Upon this information, the Queen determined to form her conduct, and grow more circumſpect, and in a ſhort time ordered it to be told the Dowager Queen, her viſits wear neither neceſſary nor agreeable.

Affairs were in this ſituation, each party impatiently expecting the return of the King, but from oppoſite motives, when,

On the King's return, the Queen gave him a true and critical account of every circumſtance that happened during his abſence, and amongſt the reſt, the intimations given her by her Gentleman. Mean while the Dowager, Baron, and their creatures, held a council immediately after the King's arrival, and, on examination, it appeared, ſucceſs had not crowned their endeavours; the King's conſtitution, and the prudence, intrepidity, and underſtanding of the Queen, were two obſtacles, both unexpected. The Baron found, that although he had in a great meaſure made the King an invalid, he had not been able, with his utmoſt effort, to reach the ſeat of life, though he had introduced to the King every exceſs of the moſt deſtructive kind.

It was at this period that meaſures were taken, and purſued by the Dowager and Baron; they concluded they had gone too far to recede, the King having from the Queen the information ſhe received from her Gentleman, and the ſecret being with many perſons of her creatures; and they likewiſe dreaded the diligence of the phyſician, and other of the Queen's friends; therefore, determined to execute their purpoſe, or periſh in the attempt; but as the common people muſt be amuſed with ſome ſtory, ſo to employ their minds, as to gain their aſſiſtance, no meaſure ſo certain to proceed on and to inſure ſucceſs, as that of attacking the Queen's honour; to make them believe ſhe was a murderеſs and adultereſs, would infallibly ſerve their purpoſe.

The King has, ſince his return, been often afflicted with a violent pain in his head, attended frequently with a ſtupefaction and dizzineſs, the conſequence of his exceſs; the Queen, on that account, now grown thoroughly experienced, engaged herſelf more frequently in buſineſs, and became intereſted in carrying ſome things, which were an indulgence to the lower order, and which ſhe did carry, and afterwards was a great prejudice to her, and afforded much cauſe of diſcontent among the higher claſs.

The Dowager failed not, at this juncture, properly to apply this; ſhe cauſed it to be rumoured that a ſcheme was in agitation, which would wholly extinguiſh their power, and cauſed it to be believed that many innovations and novelties would ſhortly take place, that would in a great meaſure make them ſlaves; that the Queen was at the head of the project, and that the King was quite averſe to any alteration, and would have all things continue in the old mode, but that being always afflicted with pain and ſickneſs, the Queen obtained ordinances from him, to the contents and meaning of which he was a perfect ſtranger; and that the King's illneſs proceeded from ſomething given by a perſon of the Queen's houſhold, as the King, always, on taking it, grew worſe. The Baron, who was yet in favour with the King, and regularly paid his court, communicated to the Dowager every word and circumſtance which might ſerve her purpoſe; and likewiſe employed his creatures and dependants to attend the coffee-houſes, &c. And the King's illneſs and the new ordinances being generally the ſubject of converſation; they firſt, by broken hints and ſagacious ſhrugs introduced ſuſpicions, and after a time, a plain declaration that the King was undoubtedly poiſoned, that the Queen having taſted of power, was run mad therewith; and not being able to cauſe the King to act in all things according to her pleaſure, ſhe was determined, in conjunction with others, to make away with the King; that during the minority of her ſon, ſhe might enjoy that love of power to the full extent, as well as the infamous correſpondence which they alledged ſhe had carried on a long time with one of her own ſervants.

The King and Queen were preſently made acquainted with theſe reports, when his Majeſty in great anger, declared they were worſe than devils that ſaid thoſe things, and determined to puniſh the author. The Queen, on her part, ſent her faithful ſervant, the Gentleman already mentioned, and who, by diligent enquiry, traced the author in the perſon of the Baron. The King ſent for him, and challenged him therewith. But the Baron, with the utmoſt aſſurance and confidence, denied the leaſt knowledge of the report at all, much more of being the author. The King ſtopped him ſhort, and immediately called in the very perſons whom he employed, and who declared on oath he did employ and inſtruct them what to ſay. Notwithſtanding, the Baron obſtinately perſiſted that he never did; but the fact being proved, to the ſatisfaction of the King, the Baron was diſcharged from all his employments, and forbid the Court. The King being now made ſenſible that ſome ſcheme was in agitation to diſturb the public tranquility, and having received a confirmation that the Dowager and her ſon had diſtributed, at ſeveral times, money among the ſoldiers of the guard, and that the officers of that corps went frequently to the palace of the Dowager Queen, unhappily reſolved to incorporate therewith another regiment, which cauſed a mutiny, that was of the greateſt ſervice to the Dowager and her party, as it ſeemed directly to confirm the truth of what had ſo frequently been reported in reſpect to the intended alterations.

However, the Dowager knew not well what to make of it; ſhe imagined that the King had ſome certain information, and upon the diſcharge of the Baron, determined to proceed in another way; and, with the moſt ſeeming ſorrow and humility, wrote to the King and Queen, earneſtly deſiring a reconciliation might take place. The Queen, who never expected the leaſt condeſcenſion from that quarter, was equally charmed and ſurpriſed, and deſired the King would immediately make her happy, and forget all that was paſt; and the King, to whom this was very agreeable, conſented, and that very day the Dowager was at Court, and ſeemed perfectly happy, and propoſed for the diverſion of the King, to give a maſked ball. This was very agreeable to the Queen, and the day was appointed.

Previous to this time, the Dowager and the other conſpirators and diſaffected, were preparing themſelves, every one having his proper part aſſigned him. The officers of the guards being gained, who having full command over the men, theſe were to be in readineſs at the time appointed.

The fatal evening being come, the King, who was in remarkable high ſpirits, had fatigued himſelf with dancing, demanded to drink, which having done, he became immediately very much inclined to ſleep, and preſently withdrew, as did the Queen ſoon after; and, as it was ſo contrived, was conducted into apartments at a diſtance from that in which the King was repoſing. No ſooner had the Queen withdrawn, but all of the traitors repaired to their reſpective poſts, and began to execute their infernal commiſſions. About twenty unhappy perſons were cruelly murdered on the ſpot, and amongſt them was that worthy and honeſt Gentleman, whom the Queen uſed merrily to call her informer, and whom the Dowager Queen had ſworn to ſacrifice to her revenge. All, or as many as were known to be friends to the Queen, who were not murdered, were immediately ſecured, and committed to ſeparate priſons; which being done with all haſte, the Dowager and her ſon, attended by ſome of the traitors, repaired to the King's apartment, before which a guard had immediately been placed. The King, on hearing a noiſe, awaked; the Dowager was orator, and began with great encomiums on his Majeſty's wiſdom, and proteſtations of her love, and fidelity of his ſubjects: then ſhe informed the King of plots, of poiſon, of dethroning, and death! all the contrivance of his Queen! of her infamous correſpondence with a perſon of low degree, whom ſhe had puniſhed for his preſumption. To all which the King made no anſwer, but demanded where was the Queen?

The Dowager then altered her tone, and ſaid to the King, "You are not to aſk any more after one who is unworthy: It is neceſſary that you immediately ſign the order for her impriſonment, or it will be attended with a worſe conſequence. The Queen is now in cuſtody, and muſt immediately be gone." The King at firſt refuſed; but, being threatened, at length complied, and ſigned the order.

In the mean time, the Queen, on entering the door of the apartment, had a guard placed thereat, which ſhe did not perceive, as thoſe without had drew to the door. When the order came for her confinement, the ladies of her retinue being called out ſeparately, were committed to ſeparate places of confinement; and on the Queen being made acquainted with their commiſſion with reſpect to herſelf, was perfectly aſtoniſhed, demanded to ſee the King, and was going to the door for that purpoſe; but the Count, who had the charge of her perſon, told her it was not permitted; that he was commanded, that ſhe muſt know it was his buſineſs to obey, and ſhe muſt immediately depart. The Queen refuſed, and perſiſted in the reſolution of ſeeing her lord and huſband; and in the moſt earneſt manner, accompanied with a flood of tears, deſired they would permit her. To this the Count returned no anſwer, but ordered all but one perſon out of the room. What followed is not known, only that her cries were heard at a great diſtance, calling alternately upon the King her huſband, and her royal brother. And it was alſo known, that about four o'clock the Queen left the city.

The public is acquainted with the ſequel.

The confinement of the Queen, the impriſonment of Struenſee, and the diſgrace of many others;—all which circumſtances we are told, wait the iſſue of the determination of certain Commiſſioners appointed for this purpoſe.—But we may ſafely conclude, that unleſs the aſcendency of the Queen Dowager be removed, there will be no ſafety for the King himſelf, nor juſtice for our injured countrywoman.

This Dowager Queen, though it does not appear that ſhe is poſſeſſed of any truly reſpectable qualities, is yet miſtreſs of the moſt profound cunning.

WILLIAMSBURG, May 14.

The Nancy, Barron, and the Succeſs's Increaſe, Leitch, from London, the Tom, Clark, from Liverpool, Molly, Stirret, and Blandford, Troop, from Glaſgow, are arrived in James River. By Capt. Troop we have papers to the 2d of April, which contain very little news. The Royal Marriage Bill has paſſed both Houſes of Parliament; peace is concluded between the Ruſſians and the Turks, which it is thought will only pave the way for freſh diſturbances in Europe; there has nothing tranſpired from Denmark, only their Ambaſſador at our Court is recalled, which is looked upon as no good omen.

PHILADELPHIA, May 21.

Since our laſt his Majeſty's 21ſt regiment of foot, or royal North Britiſh Fuſileers, marched for New-York.—This regiment, while amongſt us, has behaved with ſuch order and decorum, that they have left behind them a character that does honour both to the officers and private men.

From Savannah, in Georgia, we learn, that on Tueſday the 21ſt of April, the General Aſſembly of that Province met, and twice made choice of Noble Wimberly Jones, Eſq; to be their Speaker, but he was rejected by his Honour the Preſident; and next day the Houſe choſe him a third time, when he declined taking the chair; then Archibald Bullock, Eſq; was elected, who being preſented to the Preſident, was approved of, and his Honour was pleaſed to deliver a Speech: And that on the Saturday night following, between eight and nine o'clock the Aſſembly was diſſolved.

May 25. By Capt. Inkſon arrived here yeſterday in 16 days from Grenada, we are aſſured, that his Excellency Governor Leybourne had iſſued a Proclamation a few days before he left that iſland, ſetting forth, That if the Frenchmen did not take the oath of allegiance to his Majeſty within 25 days from the date thereof, they muſt depart from that iſland, except they give ſufficient reaſons to the contrary.

To the PRINTER.

THERE are very few Cities whoſe Streets might with more Eaſe and Conveniency be kept clean, than thoſe of New-York, and yet their Dirtineſs has often been remarked and cenſured by Strangers, in which every attentive Inhabitant muſt join with them. Whence ariſes this ſlovenly Inattention to Cleanlineſs? Is it from a Defect of the Laws, or of thoſe who ſhould put them in Execution?—— Whatever be the Cauſe it undoubtedly ought to be removed.

SPECTATOR.

New-York, 25th. May, 1772.

NEW-YORK, May 28.

To His Excellency WILLIAM TRYON Eſq; Captain General and Governor in Chief, in, and over the Province of New-York, and the Territories depending thereon in America, Chancellor, and vice Admiral of the ſame.

May it pleaſe your Excellency,

OF the many Congratulations you have received on your Promotion to the Government of this Province, none have been more cordial and ſincere, than thoſe which the Clergy of the Church of England in New-York, and New-Jerſey, now met in their firſt annual voluntary Convention ſince your Arrival, beg leave to preſent to your Excellency.

We eſteem it a great Happineſs to this Province, and a ſtrong proof of his Majeſty's Affection for it, that the ſuperintendency of it is committed to your Excellency; to whoſe eminent Abilities, Virtues and Accompliſhments, we were no Strangers at the Time of your Appointment; for we had often heard, with peculiar Pleaſure, and your Reſidence among us for almoſt a Year has confirmed the Accounts—of your amiable Character in private Life; which commands our Love and Affection—Of your virtuous Example, which is of the utmoſt Conſequence to the People over whom you preſide—of your public Countenance to Religion; without which every Adminiſtration muſt be defective—Particularly, of your conſtant and devout Attendance on its Ordinances; which is highly Ornamental to Perſons in the moſt exalted Stations—And, of your ſkill in conducting the arduous Affairs of Government, which is an eſſential Qualification of a good Governor.

Beſides all this, permit us to mention, theſe refined Sentiments of Honour, and of Duty to our gracious Sovereign—that parental Regard for the Peace and Tranquility of a People, which had been committed to your Care—and that greatneſs of Mind, which deſpiſes all Regards to perſonal Eaſe or Safety in Compariſon with the public Good; of which diſtinguiſhed Accompliſhments you gave an illuſtrious Specimen to the World, on a melancholy Occaſion. Such Conduct, in our Opinion, has added Dignity and Splendor to a Character that was eminent before, and rendered it as much the Object of our Admiration, as of our Eſteem and Affection.

Amongſt the numerous religious Denominations in this Province (with all which we are deſirous of living upon the moſt friendly Terms) the Church of England, we preſume, has, at leaſt, an equal Claim with any others, to the Protection and Countenance of Government. Loyal to the King, and Submiſſive to the Laws, her Fidelity has never been impeached, nor worn a ſuſpicious Appearance.

As to ourſelves, we are moſt firmly attached to his Majeſty's Perſon, Family and Government: We highly eſteem every Part of our admirable Conſtitution: We teach the great Principles of Loyalty and Obedience, as matter of Duty and Conſcience, as well as of Intereſt: And thoſe of us, in Particular, who have the Happineſs of being under your Government, beg leave to aſſure your Excellency, that we conſider ourſelves as under inviolable Obligations, to exert our utmoſt Influence, and ardently to pray, that your Adminiſtration may be as happy to yourſelf, as it is to the Province over which you preſide.

With theſe Sentiments and Principles, and a correſponding Behaviour, it is impoſſible for us to doubt of your Excellency's Patronage; any more than of your granting to the Church of England, in this Province all that Countenance and Protection to which it is juſtly entitled.

By Order of the Convention

SAMUEL SEABURY, Secretary.

New-York, May the 25th, 1772.

His EXCELLENCY's ANSWER.

Reverend Gentlemen,

THE honorary Sentiments contained in your Addreſs, and the obliging Manner in which they are expreſſed, merit my warmeſt Thanks; and being preſented by ſo reſpectable a Body as the Clergy of the Church of England in New York and New Jerſey, at their anniverſary Convention, makes it extremely grateful and pleaſing to me.

The Honour of my Sovereign, and the Good of his People committed to my Care, have ever, in my public Character, been the governing Principles and the ruling Paſſion of my Heart; to meet with the Approbation of the former, and ſhare the Affection of the latter, is my higheſt Ambition; and I ſhould account it an additional Felicity, could I in any Meaſure by my private Example, or public Influence, afford Encouragement to the Miniſtry of the Goſpel, or aid the Cauſe of revealed Religion.

My Endeavours to advance the eſtabliſhed Church of the Mother Country will not leave you in Doubt of my Zeal and cordial Attachment to her Intereſt; the Repreſentation of her Clergy in this Government and in New Jerſey, eminent for their Chriſtian Virtues, pious and exemplary Lives and Characters, renders them not only reſpectable in their Order and ſerviceable to Religion, but at the ſame Time, gives them a Claim to my Countenance, and entitles them to my Reſpect and Protection.

The Audience was next agreeably entertain'd with a judicious Compariſon of modern and ancient Learning, and an accurate Eſtimate of the peculiar Excellencies of each, by Mr. BOWDEN; whoſe elegant Compoſition and animated Delivery, did him much Honour.

Mr. SKENE, next, diſcovered much Brilliancy of Fancy and refin'd Taſte, in an Engliſh Oration on the Beauties of Poetry, pronounced with Spirit, and recommended by the Accuracy of his Geſture.

ed. Mr. WIN-
of an Empiric,
and Mr. MUIR-

SON, in his Reply, pointed out, in a striking Light, the superior Advantages of a regular Application to the Study of Physic, and rallied the Pretensions of Empiricism with much Wit and Pleasantry.

Mr. KING, next, gain'd much Applause, by an animated Latin Oration, On the Love of Glory.

The bold Hypotheses of presumptuous Philosophers, and the ridiculous Consequences of Confidence and Dogmatism, in the different literary Professions, were placed in a striking Light, by Mr. ROEBUCK, in an humourous ironical Panegyric on the happy Effects of Presumption and Assurance; which, joined with the Propriety of his Delivery, occasioned much Mirth, and met with the highest Applause from the Audience.

The Degree of A. B. was then conferr'd on Messrs. Ogden, Skene, Bowden, Barclay, King and Roebuck. The following Gentlemen, who gave singular Marks of their Improvement in medical Knowledge, at their public Examination, were graduated Bachelors in Physic: James Muirson, Charles Doughty, A. M. William Winterton, John Augustus Graham, Uzal Johnson, Richard Udall.

Col. EDMUND FANNING, Esq; A. M. of Yale College and of Cambridge, New-England, was admitted ad eundem.

The Exercises of the Day were then concluded with a very sensible Valedictory Oration on Sociability, by Mr. BARCLAY; whose judicious Observations, and modest Address, gained him universal Approbation. The Attention paid by the Audience, and the Satisfaction they expressed during the Course of the Exercises, did much Honour to themselves and the Speakers; and must give Pleasure to every Lover of Literature, and every true Patriot, who wishes to see the Sciences disseminated and widely flourishing in this happy Country.

Thursday last the Ship ——, Capt. Watson, and on Sunday the Ship Grace, Capt. Young, sailed for Bristol.

Thursday last the Races came on at Flat Bush, when six Horses started for the Purse, which was won by Mr. Butler's Horse Auctioneer.

Saturday Evening last the Snow Restoration, Capt. Thomas, arrived here from Bristol, in 8 Weeks; Thursday last he spoke with the Ship Britannia, Capt. Falkner, from Philadelphia for London, all well.

Sunday last, the four last Companies of the 26th Regiment, (quartered here for some Time past) embarked for Albany, in order to proceed from thence for their Station in Canada. To do Justice to the Officers and private Men of this Regiment, we can affirm, that during their Residence in this City, they have behaved with such Order and Decorum, as gave universal Satisfaction to the Inhabitants.

Since our last arrived here from Philadelphia, a Detachment of his Majesty's 21st Regiment, of Foot or Royal North British Fuzileers.

Early on Sunday Morning the 24th Inst. departed this Life, after a tedious and painful Indisposition, which he supported with the utmost fortitude and Resignation, Mr. THOMAS WALTON, of this City Merchant, in the 36th Year of his Age, a Gentleman universally beloved and Esteemed—His Death is greatly lamented by an extensive and respectable Connection, as well as by a numerous Circle of Friends and Acquaintance.

WILLIAM DEANE Coach-maker,

INFORMS the public in general and his customers in particular, that he carries on his business as usual in Broad-street—where he makes all sorts of coaches, landeaus, phatons, curricles, chairs and chaises; likewise all sorts of harness and sadlers work, as also painting, guilding and japanning in the neatest and most elegant manner.—And as he finishes all carriages whatever in his own shop without applying to any other.—He is likewise determined to make them as good, sell them as cheap, and be as expeditious as there is a possibility—And to convince the public of the truth of what he asserts, he will make any piece of work that is required equal to any imported from England, and will sell it at the prime cost of that imported, by which means those who are pleased to favour him with their custom will save the freight, insurence, and the expences naturally attending in putting the carriages to rights after they arrive—And as a further inducement, he will engage his work for a year after it is delivered, that is, if any part gives way or fails by fair usage, he will make it good at his own expence. Those advantages cannot be obtained on carriages imported. He has now a considerable stock of the best of all materials fit for making carriages.——For the above reasons, he most humbly requests the encouragement of the public, which will be most gratefully acknowledged by him.

Said DEANE paints and repairs all manner of old work very reasonably, and has for sale just finished, a new phaton, and four new chairs. 34 37

POET'S CORNER.

Written on the SEA SHORE.
By a LADY.

THOU restless, fascinating Deep,
Expressive of the human Mind,
In thee for ever varying Form,
My own inconstant self I find.

Now soft now raw thy peaceful Waves,
In just Gradations to the Shore,
While on thy Brow unclouded shines,
The Regent of the Midnight Hour.

Fit Emblem of that equal State,
Which in this Moment feel within;
Where Thought to Thought succeeding rolls,
And all is placid and serene.

Their Light the trembling Moon beams dart,
My less'ning Shadow's Image dances,
And gaily brightens all thy Surface,
But oh! this flattering Scene of Peace,
By neither can be long enjoy'd;
When Storms invade the tranquil Calm,
And rising Sorrow shake my Breast.

O! Cherish thy Cynthia's silver Ray,
Which Clouds opposing interlard,
And envy Joy that Friendship gives,
Shall fade beneath the Gloom of Eclipse.

WATCHES,

HORIZONTAL, REPEATING, or PLAIN;

CLOCKS,

ASTRONOMICAL, Muſical or Plain, with Weights or Springs, repaired, as cheap as by any Perſon in this City, by JAMES YEOMAN, (at the Sign of the White Dial, nearly oppoſite the Merchant's Coffee-Houſe) who received his Inſtructions in the Buſineſs from the ingenious Mr. Neale, (whoſe great Knowledge in Mechanics was well known) he can with Propriety declare himſelf a real Manufacturer, having had the Government of a large Manufactory from its Infancy to its Maturity, one Hundred Miles from London.

The above is not the Reſult of Vanity or Parade, for ſhould it be doubted, proper Teſtimonials ſhall be produced, to prove the Aſſertion;——As it is the ſole Wiſh of the ſaid James Yeoman, to obtain favour, only proportioned to the Knowledge he has, and the Satisfaction he affords in his Buſineſs,—on thoſe foundations he ſubmits his Reputation, as an Artificer, to the Judgment of the Impartial. —17

MITTAU, February 18.

COUNT Tottleben is arrived at Riga, from whence he will ſet out ſoon to take the command of a corps of 30,000 Ruſſians, who are to enter Lithuania and Poland next ſpring. All the advices we receive from Peterſbourg bring favourable accounts regarding the plague, and that the contagion is entirely ceaſed at Moſcow.

Conſtantinople, Jan. 3. The French having lately met with ſome inſults here, a guard is now placed, for their better ſecurity, at the two extremities of their quarters.

Naples, Feb. 11. His Royal Highneſs the Duke of Glouceſter, who continues extremely well, intends to ſet out from hence on Sunday or Monday ſe'nnight, in order to ſpend the laſt week of the carnival at Rome.

Venice, February 15. The laſt Letters from Conſtantinople mention a dreadful Earthquake having happened there lately, which occaſioned much damage, and ſeveral of the inhabitants were buried in the ruins.

Hamburgh, February 26. It is ſaid that the Sieur Struenſee, Superintendant General of the Churches in the Duchies of Sleſwick and Holſtein, was ſeized with a fit of apoplexy upon receiving the news of his ſon Count Struenſee's impriſonment, and died upon the ſpot. He often expreſſed great concern at the rapid advancement of his ſon; and when he heard that he was made Prime Miniſter, he ſaid, with great warmth, that he had rather have received advice of his death.

From the Frontiers of Poland, Feb. 28. The Baron Viomeſirel is at preſent at Teſchen with the principal chiefs of the Confederates, to concert with them the plan of operations for the enſuing campaign, which by all appearance will be very bloody in Poland, where the General Confederacy have ſeveral regiments, made up of deſerters from different nations, who are all in uniforms, and well diſciplined; and it is added, that the money with which they are furniſhed by the bankers of one of the principal cities in Germany doth not amount to leſs than 1000 florins per day.

Warſaw, March 7. Though we are aſſured preliminaries are ſigned between the Ruſſians and Turks, yet both ſides are buſy in preparing for war. However, we flatter ourſelves, that it is only making peace iword in hand.

Hague, March 9. A long letter from Copenhagen has been publiſhed here, by ſeeming authority, which contradicts, in a great meaſure, the accounts already given of the revolution there. It accuſes M. Struenſee as the author of certain projects, which were to the liking of the King, but that they all tended to aggrandize himſelf; and concludes with aſſerting, that Prince Frederick, the King's brother, is not Prime Miniſter, that he is no ways ambitious of ſuch a title: and that his auguſt mother has an innumerable train of witneſſes and admirers of her conduct in this affair, to prove her guiltleſs of the baſe charges brought againſt her.

LONDON,

March 12. It is ſtrongly reported that a yatch, with ten ſail of the line and three bombs, will ſhortly ſail for Copenhagen.

Extract of a letter from Aleppo, Dec. 9.

"The hopes of tranquility being eſtabliſhed in Syria ſoon vaniſhed on the arrival of a reinforcement of Egyptian troops in the town of Acre (Ptolemais) conſiſting of 2000 horſe and 6000 foot, and other forces were expected, which were all deſtined to join Chiek Daher, and the other Emirs allied to Ali Bey, to begin the operations by the ſiege of Jeruſalem, and from thence to proceed to Damaſcus. Ali Bey, far from abandoning his reſolution of conquering Syria, is redoubling his efforts to bring it under his ſubjection, and by that means to unite under his dominion all the country which formed the Empire of the ancient Sultans of Egypt. It is not known whether the Druſes intend oppoſing this conqueror or not. The Pacha of Damaſcus's ſon who commanded at Sayde, retired with them to the mountains of Labanon, and we do not know whether he is returned to Damaſcus. The Grand Signor ſeems not to be concerned in this war, and has not yet ſent any troops againſt him."

Britain, who has ſo much engroſſed the attention of the public, was laſt week acquitted at Reading, for forgery; there were two indictments againſt him, but no bill found. He was, however, ordered to be removed by Habeas Corpus to Briſtol, where there are ſeveral detainers lodged againſt him for ſimilar crimes.

HUGH GAINE,

Has received in the laſt Veſſels from London, the ſeveral Articles under mentioned, which, by Appointment of the Proprietors may be had at his Store at the Bible and Crown in Hanover Square, on the moſt reaſonable Terms viz.

The Game of MOTTOES, or Engliſh Jokes,

IN imitation of, but far ſuperiour to, the French mottoes or jokes ſold at a very high price in London. Theſe JOKES were invented abroad as an agreeable amuſement after dinner and ſupper, by enlivening and entertaining company at a trifling expence. Ladies chooſe for gentlemen, and gentlemen for ladies; and when broke, contain a motto or joke, which generally is productive of the greateſt mirth and humour. In ſhort, every one may find in this game, under the pleaſing covering of artificial fruit, a flower, or a bird, ſome uſeful precept, and witty and agreeable ſaying, tending to convey inſtruction by means of pleaſure and delight.

For the Complexion, and Diſorders of the Skin:

THE TRUE EAU DE FLEURS DE VENICE, or the VENETIAN BLOOM-WATER. This curious water, extracted from the moſt fragrant flowers, is much ſuperior to any beauty-waſh ever yet diſcovered, giving to the ſkin the greateſt whiteneſs and ſoftneſs imaginable. It takes away pimples, freckles and ſpots of every kind, with all diſagreeable redneſs, tans, and ſun-burns. It deſtroys thoſe minute worms, [maggots] which lodge under and deform the ſkin. It preſerves it from wrinkles to an advanced age, and gives to the whole complection, in a very ſhort time, that healthful and blooming appearance which it ought to have when free from diſorders. It is alſo excellent for the eyes, ſtrengthening and preſerving the ſight.

THE AROMATICK TOOTH-WATER:

INVENTED by CAPPRONS, dentiſt to his moſt Chriſtian Majeſty, which not only cleanſes and whitens the teeth, but preſerves the gums, nouriſhes and makes them grow. It eradicates the moſt inveterate ſcurvy, renders thoſe teeth that are looſe and ready to fall out, firm and fixed; preſerves ſuch as are ſound, and prevents their ſpoiling. This Aromatick water has beſides, the virtue of curing all diſagreeable ſmells from the breath, which are owing to the ſcurvy in the gums and rotten teeth.
